

Cookie Policy (Website)

Cookies are small text files that are placed on your computer by websites that you visit. They are widely used in order to make websites work, or work more efficiently, as well as to provide information to the owners of the site. The list below explains examples of cookies we may use and why.

Google Analytics - These cookies are used to collect information about how visitors use our site. We use the information to compile reports and to help us improve the site. The cookies collect information in an anonymous form, including the number of visitors to the site, where visitors have come to the site from and the pages they visited.

For more information please view an overview of privacy at Google here:

<http://www.google.com/analytics/learn/privacy.html>

- remembering choices, settings and preferences you made, so you do not have to keep re-entering them (functionality cookies)
- remembering terms of use you have accepted so you do not need to keep accepting them (strictly necessary cookies) Without these cookies, information you are looking for cannot be provided;
- measuring how you use the website so we can make sure it meets your needs (performance cookies)

Note that most web browsers allow you to modify your preferences to notify you when a cookie is set, or to reject all cookies. This will mean that certain areas of a website will not function correctly.

Most web browsers allow some control of most cookies through the browser settings. To find out more about cookies, including how to see what cookies have been set and how to manage and delete them, visit www.allaboutcookies.org.

To opt out of being tracked by Google Analytics across all websites visit <http://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>.